2010 Caught in the Act

---

The Title I office has established an award entitled “Caught in the Act”. This award recognizes Title I staff who have been “caught in the act” of performing exceptional Title I services and are being honored for these outstanding acts. The following awards were announced at the 2010 Title I, Special Education, 21st CCLC Fall Conference.

Nancy Fjeld, Lora Rochholz and Chris Kramer were recognized for being an exemplary “Title I team” at Jim Hill Middle School in the Minot Public School District. Jim Hill Middle School is identified as a Title I program improvement school. The Title I staff was recognized as an example of how to handle a program improvement designation. Jim Hill Middle School, through their Title I funds, ARRA funds, and SIG funds, is implementing numerous strategies and activities to assist struggling learners and help them make AYP. Their school is proof that dedicated educators can take a program improvement designation and turn it into a positive outcome for students.

Caught in the Act
award recipient
Shirley Lindstrom

Shirley Lindstrom was recognized for her work as a Title I coordinator in the New Rockford-Sheyenne Public School District. Due to Shirley’s hard work and extra efforts, her district consistently meets reporting deadlines for all of the Title I applications and reports. The Title I SIG application submitted by the New Rockford-Sheyenne Public School District was exemplary and is used as a sample for other North Dakota school districts.
